Third-party Privacy Agreements for Outsourced Services

Purpose

The purpose of this guideline is to provide tools that can be used by Ontario school boards and authorities when contracting services that involve the release or use of staff and student personal information to ensure it is protected.

Overview

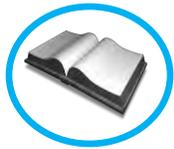

In accordance with the Municipal Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act (MFIPPA), and the Personal Health Information Protection Act (PHIPPA), Ontario school boards/authorities are required to protect personal information.

Ontario school boards/authorities frequently outsource services by entering into service contracts with other organizations as a means of obtaining value and service for Ontario taxpayers. Such services may include:

- information technology services (e.g., data storage or warehousing, troubleshooting, etc.);
- school bus operators for transportation of students;
- financial services such as payroll;
- records storage and document destruction; and
- conducting research

Under these service agreements, the Ontario school board may transfer custody of student or staff personal information to a third party for the provision of the service. In these cases, while the third party has custody of the information, the board retains control over it and must ensure that the third party meets the board's obligations under the laws of Ontario, including the MFIPPA. This includes ensuring that the information is:

- protected by appropriate safeguards;
- collected, used, disclosed, and disposed of appropriately;
- the school board is notified of potential breaches; and

- the school board is notified of any further transfer of custody of the information to an alternate service provider.

Privacy Impact Assessment Guidelines

Best Practice Guidelines

To support school boards in outsourcing services, this guideline includes:

- 1) a risk assessment tool that can be used to assess a third party's privacy and security practices; and
- 2) model agreements between the service provider and the board.

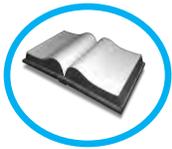

School boards' Purchasing Services staff, Access and Privacy staff, and the impacted department or school should collaborate to determine the best method for implementing these guidelines for new service agreements.

Additionally, consideration should be given to having existing service providers complete the assessment tool and sign the agreements where an agreement has not previously been completed.

Service Provider Privacy and Security Assessment Tool

This tool is designed to help school boards assess the privacy and security practices of any perspective or current vendor. School boards should incorporate this tool into their tender process where the tender involves personal information. The tool is attached as appendix A.

Privacy Considerations for Confidentiality/Data Sharing Agreements

If the Privacy and Security Assessment is satisfactory and the board is prepared to enter into a contract for service, the board should a) include privacy provisions as part of the service contract or agreement, or b) request that the vendor sign a separate confidentiality or data sharing agreement.

Essentially, the contractual provisions should indicate that any third party to whom personal information is disclosed must maintain safeguards to protect it. Third parties must also protect against unauthorized usage, modification, copying, accessing, or other unauthorized processing of such information. In this regard, the objective is to ensure the security and confidentiality of all records and data, protect against anticipated threats or hazards to the security or integrity of information, and protect against unauthorized access to or use of information.

Where the decision is to include clauses in the service agreement, at a minimum the following clauses should be used:

Collection

Where a third party is collecting personal information on behalf of the school board/authority, it must comply with the provisions regarding the authority to collect, the manner of collection, and notice of collection. See sections 28, 29 (1) and 29 (2) of MFIPPA.

Retention

The third party must adhere to the minimum retention periods for personal information in accordance with S. 5 of MFIPPA Regulation 823 unless the school board specifically provides for a different retention period.

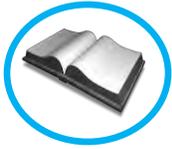

Use and Disclosure

Regardless of how the third party receives the personal information, it must use it in accordance with MFIPPA sections 31 and 32; for example:

- Personal information can only be used or disclosed when the individual to whom the information pertains has identified the information in particular and consented to its use and/or disclosure, or for a purpose for which it was obtained or compiled, or for a consistent purpose.

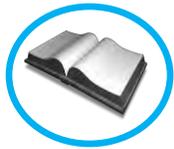

Disposal

Approved procedures and methods to dispose of personal information in the custody of the third party shall be approved and included in the agreement. Where personal information is in digital format, the agreement should state that the media cannot be re-used unless the information on it can be destroyed in such a way that it cannot be re-created. As a best practice, a school board should have personal information returned to it for disposal via its Records and Information Management program instead of having the third party dispose of it, unless the third party can comply with the requirements of the school board's Records and Information Management program.

Security

Third parties must implement and prove adherence to appropriate precautions to ensure that personal information can be reproduced if the original information is lost or unintentionally destroyed. Once personal information is returned to the school board/authority, the third party must prove that it cannot reproduce that information.

Other Considerations

Accountability

Assign and document accountability within the school board and the third party. Ensure that a reliable plan exists should informational privacy be breached.

Business Continuity

Be prepared should a contractual breach occur, rendering the personal information inaccessible. For example, retain the data in duplicate in a secondary location or in another format.

Training

Ensure that appropriate staff is knowledgeable in the requirements and particulars of third-party privacy agreements.

Ensuring Third-Party Compliance

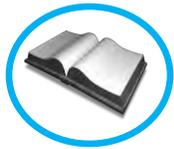

Include in your agreement that third parties must advise their staff or subcontractors of the privacy provisions both within the legislation and within their contractual obligation. Also require them to sign an undertaking of confidentiality regarding personal information. Boards may also choose to restrict third parties further subcontracting of services without the prior board approval.

Cross-Border Transfer of Personal Information

Many organizations, including school boards, have expressed concerns about having personal information transferred across borders because once the information leaves Canada, only the laws of the receiving country will apply to the information. For example, American companies are subject to U.S. regulation—including the USA Patriot Act, which permits U.S. law enforcement officials, for the purpose of an anti-terrorism investigation, to seek a court order that allows access to the personal records of any person without that person's knowledge, as long as the relevant records are stored in the United States.

There is no law or requirement that prohibits the transfer of personal data across borders; however, investigations by the Ontario Information and Privacy Commissioner (IPC) highlight the IPC's opinion that electronic health records and personal health information should remain in Canada to avoid disclosure of personal information.

Further, with regard to cross-border transfer of OSR information, it is not clear if the OSR "privilege" set out in the Education Act requires school boards to comply with a higher standard to protect the information stored by a third party. Therefore, school boards should be cautious in their selection of third-party services and providers that will require or permit OSR information or personal health information to cross borders.

When personal information crosses any border, school boards should ensure that all service agreements contain contractual provisions to provide equivalent protection to personal information that is being transferred outside of Canada, including specific controls pertaining to the access to and disclosure of personal information. These service agreements should describe where the personal information will be stored, establish safeguards to ensure information will not be inappropriately access, used, or disclosed, and develop a procedure to respond to a privacy breach.

Model Agreements

Three model agreements are attached as Appendices and can be used where a separate agreement is warranted. The first model agreement can be used to refer to an existing contract or tender, and contains general clauses for protection of information. The second model agreement can be used to define the process and establish specific rules for collection and use of data. The third model agreement can be used where there is a need to evaluate products or services to protect any personal and/or confidential information being exchanged.

Certification of Destruction

To ensure that obsolete data is properly disposed of, schools should consider requesting that the vendor complete and return a certificate of destruction verifying that personal information has been securely disposed of at the end of the lifecycle or returned to the School Board. A model certification of destruction is attached as Appendix __D__.
